SOCIAL PET MURAL KEY

The Roadmap and Green Areas - We put up a street map of the Echo Hills area spanning a section of Monroe Rd and Independence Blvd. We used the green transitions to reference the hills and natural areas that are mixed into this area of the city.

Pit Bull - Peeking out from behind a tree, this Pittie represents our neighbors at Time Out Youth who work to bring together LGBTQ youth in a safe, supportive environment and educate the community on inclusivity and understanding. The paw is raised to show support of the Black lives disproportionately affected by police brutality.

Golden - Flexing her fitness, this Golden represents the training and exercise that Social Pet provides every furry friend that stays here.

Beagle - Swinging a shammie, this Beagle is waiting to wipe down the next ride that comes through the Auto Bell next door.

Doodle - Riding high, this Labradoodle is relaxing in a cup of coffee from Common Market while making her way through the city.

Bulldog - If you grew up in Charlotte, you will know about Morris Costumes. The original owner of this business, Phillip Morris, claims to have created the Bigfoot suit seen in the widely known Patterson-Gimlin film (the original Bigfoot video).

Pug - This little Pug is ready for a checkup if he can make it back to the nearby animal hospital.

Boxer - This Boxer has the blues and he's going up the street to Smokey Joe's to let you know how hard he's living.

Rottie - This chef has been part of the Monroe/Wendover intersection for over 50 years. Serving up 'Fresh My Farm' vegetables, he's really famous for his fried squash.
